Holidays to Skåne and Malmö in the south of Sweden

Southern Sweden is awash with near 300 castles and gardens from various historic eras ranging from the 12th to 19th centuries. Due to their general magnificence, it's a hard choice, but if you are near Helsingborg, breathing in the blooming, lovely rhododendrons at the opulent renaissance style Sofiero castle and gardens, is a must.

Southern Sweden

Southern Sweden is characterized by relatively small and vibrant cities integrated with farm land, many lakes and small forests of oak and birch. Southern Sweden was until the mid-sixteen hundreds ruled by Denmark and the Danish influence can still be noticed in the architecture.
